Chile's Red Blends are Having a Moment

BY MICHAEL SCHACHNER

Milla Calla featured among 10 best-scoring blended wines in this report.

“...When you take a closer look at what’s happening west of the Andes these days, it is Chile’s blended red wines that have emerged as its best wines. That’s right, Chile is in the midst of a red-blend moment, and why not?”

Vik 2014 Milla Cala (Cachapoal Valley); $45 93 points

Ripe, spicy and elegant from the start, this Cabernet blend captures the essence of what Vik is doing in the Cachapoal Valley.

Blackberry, prune, cedar, cigar tobacco and chocolate flavors are all noted, while this finishes with good clarity and body along with latent coffee, tobacco and oak flavors.

Drink through 2024. Guarachi Wine Partners.
